

Elusive Dream

have you ever woken up, wrapped-up in a feeling of complete and total bliss and pondered to yourself what'd I ever do to deserve all of this you wallow in a warm sense of wonder even ignoring a faint breeze of doubt while simultaneously trying to recollect what that last dream was really all about you see images and then whole pictures quickly forming a magnificent collage back-lit by light from the luminous waves of some quavering far distant mirage you begin to feel a bit shaken even as you hunger for more cause you think that you hear rolling thunder unlike any that you've ever heard before then you suddenly see everything fading away under the loud foreboding sound of a fallen, injured and misguided soul looking to "bang" your damn door down